

WAR NEWS.

A dispatch from Gen. McClellan's headquarters states that all was quiet before Richmond yesterday. A contraband had reached the camp who reported that great excitement prevailed in the city, but there were no sign of evacuation, the Confederates evidently having determined to defend the place at all hazards. It is reported that the Confederate loss in the battles of Saturday and Sunday, will reach ten thousand in killed, wounded and missing. The Confederate telegraphic accounts of the battles on Saturday and Sunday last, claim them as great victories. The fighting, they say, was desperate, and the carnage on both sides dreadful, but it is believed that the Federal loss was double theirs. The Federal troops were driven from their advanced position, and lost eighteen of their guns, and five hundred men as prisoners. The only particular mention of the Sunday battle is that the engagement was renewed on that day with musketry. Gen. Jeff. Davis is said to have been on the field encouraging the troops.

A Mount Jackson dispatch, dated yesterday, says that further pursuit of Gen. Jackson's Confederate army was stopped by the sudden rise in the Shenandoah river washing away the pontoon bridge, with which the one destroyed by the Confederates had been replaced.

Gen. Halleck has removed his headquarters to Corinth. The Confederates are reported to be eighty thousand strong between Baldwin and Okalona, on the Mobile and Ohio railroad. At last accounts, Gen. Pope was still pursuing the retreating army.

Dispatches from the Mississippi flotilla, dated the 4th inst., state that the bombardment of Fort Pillow commenced on the previous day, and continued until evening, eliciting a brisk cannonade from the garrison. In the afternoon, three Federal rams went down to reconnoitre, and were fired on several times, but all returned uninjured. Subsequently, the Confederate gunboat Jeff. Thompson came round Craighead Point, but, being fired on, retired. The bombardment was resumed on Wednesday morning. The next dispatches are dated at Cairo yesterday, and report that the Confederates had evacuated the works, destroying everything that was destructible, even the heavy mortars. Some cannon were left and captured. The Federal gunboats then went down the river towards Fort Randolph, which it is reported had also been evacuated. If this is the case, there was nothing to prevent the fleet arriving before Memphis yesterday.

The reports of the capture of Vicksburg, it appears, have been premature, as the papers of that city of Saturday, the 31st ult., state that the Federal fleet was then no nearer the possession of the city than when it first approached it; and also report that several of the vessels of the flotilla had retired from the scene for the purpose, it is supposed, of reorganizing for a grand attack on the Confederate works, which are said to be very formidable.

The U. S. Navy Department has issued proposals for the construction and complete equipment of fifteen gunboats, speed not less than thirteen knots, to be delivered within four months; and, in conjunction with the War Department, proposals are invited for heavy guns for both these branches of public service.

James H. Lane, of Kansas, delivered an address in New York on last Thursday, on the Union and the war. Rev. Dr. Tyng presided, and there were some eight hundred persons present. The speaker spoke vehemently against the institution of slavery, and urged the freedom of every slave and the arming of black guerillas to hunt out the rebels who are hanging on the skirts of the army.
